

SALESPERSON

Computer SOS, Inc., is looking for a highly motivated and energetic candidate to expand their market throughout NYS and beyond. Sales training and product training will be provided! If you have strong interpersonal and communication skills and possess a general understanding and interest in IT, then this job is right for you. Candidate must be able to adapt and modify their sales techniques to obtain and retain new and current customers. Will focus on point of sale/inventory control software as well as other products offered by the company such as websites, hosting, and computer services and will be working with the sales manager on quoting large project sales. This is a great opportunity for a self-starter to shine in a rapidly growing leader in technology. The position offers a base salary with a highly motivational commission package as well as benefits and training.

Basic computer hardware & software knowledge helpful. Ability to work on your own and/or with a group, communication and organizational skills.

Additional Information

Position Type: Full Time

Job Type: Employee

Base salary, generous commission, benefits